For Clue 900, the black dots on the front spell PEPTOMANCER

The Spear of Saint Croix is perhaps 4 feet in size and adorned with intricate carvings. If properly restored from it's weathered and rusted state, it could be worth a fortune. Just holding the hefty artifact makes you feel… otherworldly.

Clue 555. Sigil on other side

An antique Civil War medallion with a small note attached, "can't wait to see you in November!" . It's signed with a lipstick kiss.

Clue 212. Red filter letter hearts and P

EvilGrungus' gun safe in the Lab. It's empty.

Clue 211. UV - there's a hairpin in the open lock.

b0mb_thr3at*: you sure you want Plunger9999 at Loveland Harbor? I like them and all, but didn't they [iwakhtahsgklohsrlj]?*

EvilGrungus*: no that was the other one lol* b0mb_thr3at*: ok but my point still stands??*

Clue 123. Pose as their twin. UV AUg 3rd 2026

Clue 561. UV - Evilgrungus died with an expression of terror on their face

The deed is not valid until payment has been delivered to the previous owners, the Emerson family.

Paperwork from the 80's granting ownership of Greenway Island to EvilGrungus' Grand-Aunt.

Clue 001

Wait!

Don't open these, read your Side Quest envelope description.

This is not a clue and cannot be traded or taken.

A cold case from the 1980's has been reopened due to new evidence. It seems that after the Memphis Maniac's historic killing spree, they relocated to Maine and have been laying low ever since.

Clue 072

You have discovered a new species of animal! This tiny frog looks unassuming at first, but after it drenches itself in the slime found in it's spawning pool, becomes eerily camouflaged in all environments.

Clue 194

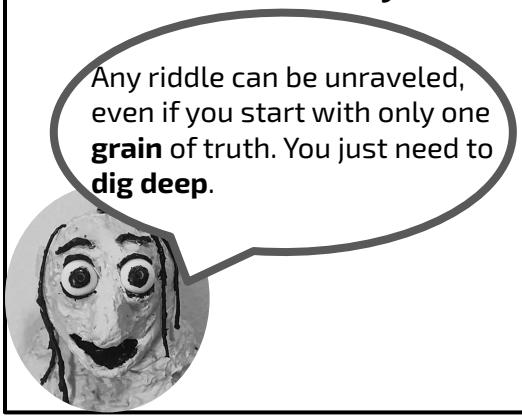

There are recent tracks in the tunnels, as if people have been carting materials underground, but all the trails stop at seeming dead-ends. The location of the dead-ends suggests a hidden cave near the Beach, and you've seen more than one crack in the tunnel wall with light spilling through.

Clue 446

Stuck in a tree is a cheap hatchet. It's designed with a "tacti-cool" aesthetic and also serves as a saw, bottle opener, compass, brass knuckles, and protractor.

Clue 810

CREATURE the Clue-Hunter says...

There is a listening device concealed at the Beach, underneath a small folding table.

Clue 308. UV letters, belongs to Rodentgaming49

Plunger9999's blog: "Well, donated another $2,000 to this Black Sight documentary crowdfunder. If this is [MECLBHLHZQJBOHSSMDLADPA]"

Clue. Code 422 (clock stopped at 4:30) scam Imight killsomeone

Slowly drifting out to sea is a mannequin fashioned by 36754332 out of branches and mud. Allegedly it's supposed to look like one of the aliens in Black Sight, but it's fallen apart into a humanoid blob.

Clue 700

A Reddit post titled: "Am I the asshole for moving my hamster colony (25 and counting!) into my mom's house so I could join a commune?" The comments are incredibly brutal and the author has since tried to delete all traces of their account.

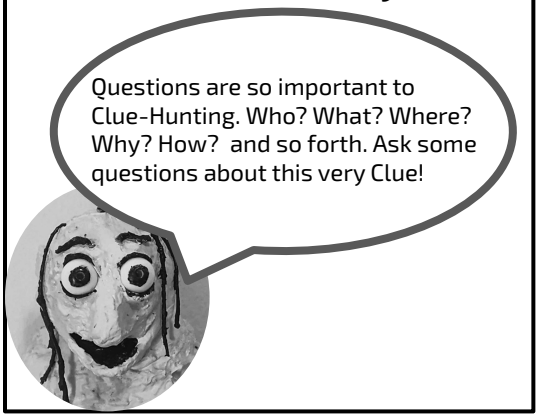

Clue 900

A text conversation, March 2026.

EvilGrungus*: yeah so that's basically Alchemy 101, or at least all I could learn at the library.*
36754332*: but with the Northern quadrant affecting intensity, is there an upper limit? Like, if I'm willing to sacrifice* everything*?*
EvilGrungus*: Haven't tried this cause I do think it would kill me, but lemme send you something*

Clue 541. UV sigil

CREATURE the Clue-Hunter says...

When you check the group's pantry, it's nearly empty, despite being told you still had food for the next few months. There's still plenty of Salt, though the label has smeared and just reads [T].

Clue 120

This flash drive contains a professional study on the contaminants found in Maine's rainwater. You'll need to Decode the file before being able to identify the Pollution, though.

Clue 192. Red Filter Letters QHQGW EMGGMT

Hi! Good work on completing your main quest. Not sure if this needs clarification, but the Clue in the envelope is before any modifications are done on the blood sample.

This is not a Clue and cannot be traded or taken.

A pile of Monster Energy and Four Loko cans left by MarkWahlbergOfficial.

Clue 796

Hint: "E"s are Keys!

Clue 805

A forum post from Charizard_Kid_2012:

"Excited that I'm going to meet many of you so soon! Take good care of my stuff for me (sending it over ahead of time), I know this island is gonna be an adventure :)"

Clue 705. UV highlighting

A page from the journal of Jeremiah Hazletop

"That encounter with the Canada Lynx was the most harrowing of my life. My rifle was inoperable and I had to fend the creature off with a shovel, hardly escaping with my life. I've learned my lesson to not purchase cheap munitions, and have cast the useless thing into the sea off the southern coast."

Clue 644

In the northeast section of the island, off any of the main trails, are a few fragment of ripped fabric caught on the bushes. They appear to be from a North Face jacket.

Clue 631

A forum post from Plunger9999

"Imagine calling us 'identical' when I would literally rather die than wear one of those ugly-ass North Face jackets lmao"

Clue 664

In the ashes of last night's bonfire, the following fragment of a half-burned letter is found.

"...though we appreciate your interest working for us, 'Money Detective' is not a real position here at the IRS, even if it is your 'reason for existence'. Furthermore, the fact your resume has to list employment measured in hours automatically disqualifies your application..."

Clue 650

In a pile of DVDs about serial killers, cults and disastrous festivals, there's a small journal, nearly illegible but filled with notes chronicling EvilGrungus' daily routine.

Clue 162. Update to add 00, oops

A page from a magazine depicts an anthropomorphic cartoon pill bottle saying:

"Did you know? Barbiturates can have serious side effects, like violent thoughts, memory loss and even hallucinations! Always say [N]o to barbiturates! When you see a barbiturate compound, think [N] for "Nice day to abstain from barbiturates".

Clue 671

EvilGrungus: Anyone know where Peptomancer is? I haven't seen them all day*
Peptomancer: I'm in the Village as usual. Digging a hole to be precise.*
everythingisfine: ok weird. u wanna elaborate why?*
Peptomancer: No <3*

Clue 129. QR Half

A note on the Lab's minifridge:

"I FINALLY CRACKED THE CODE ON THE IDEAL ORDER FOR HOAGIE NIGHT AND IF YOU STEAL MY LEFTOVERS AGAIN I'LL KICK YOUR ASS! I'M WATCHING!!!
-RodentGaming49"

Clue 579

Constitution of the Terrestrial nation:
1. Our prime directive is the construction of a harmonious kingdom which shall serve as an example of peace to the entire galaxy.

Addendum 1.1 This harmony does not extend to whoever has been stealing leftover hoagies on Hoagie Night.

Clue 694

This old hut in the Village is filled with crumbs and half-buried wrappers bearing the logo of a mainland sandwich shop.

Clue 805

By the Shipwreck, there's a patch of dirt that's much more firmly packed than the surrounding area. Maybe there's something underneath?

Clue 444. UV text "old glass bottle"

Plunger9999's tent contains a few old paperback books:
- "Camera Refurbishment for Dummies"
- "Scary Sword of the Evil King VII"
- "Break // Up: A Guide to Navigating Narcissistic Personalities and Pursuing Better Living."

Clue 137 QR Half

On the Beach is a makeshift cell tower and diesel generator, providing spotty reception and power to the denizens of Loveland Harbor.

A computer terminal for controlling the apparatus sits under an umbrella, apparently constructed from a tablet, keyboard, and a few disc drives soldered together.

Clue 204. UV message “the generator produces harmful fumes”

EvilGrungus’ personal laptop, containing an encrypted file of interest. It reads:

EPTABPTATM_WB
CTTHJM_GPQHRWG

The guest login is not password protected, if you had an external drive you wanted to upload and view here.

Clue 901 [546]CODE: Lord Ordresh ArrivesTonight

A note in EvilGrungus’ handwriting:

“laptoppassword546”

Clue 546

In the woods near the Lighthouse is a large boulder. Climbing it gives you a clear line of sight to the Village, across the island.

Clue 177

By the Shipwreck is a set of targets peppered with bullet holes. A nearby blackboard proclaims the current Loveland Harbor Gunslinging Champions:
#1 - RodentGaming49
#2 - 36754332
#3 - everythingisfine

Clue 191

On the southern end of the island, there’s an antique-looking rifle in the water, only a few feet away from the shore. Atlantic Sturgeon swim in the waters around the gun, but given their lack of opposable thumbs you can likely rule “fish” off the suspect list.

Clue 181. Red Filter Letters T I O

When MarkWahlbergOfficial discovered the body, EvilGrungus' head was on a blood-stained rock.

Clue 245

An excerpt from MarkWahlbergOfficial's search history:

- How to make a citizen's arrest
- Maximum sentence for car theft
- How much evidence to convict a murderer
- Maine death penalty laws

Clue 240

A text exchange from August 2026

MarkWahlbergOfficial*: Can you refill EvilGrungus' prescription today?*
b0mb_thr3at*: the seizure one or the antibiotics?*
MarkWahlbergOfficial*: Both actually. They're under a lot of stress with the whole "island" thing and don't want to see people, let alone pills. I'm like one step away from hiding them in peanut butter like they're a dog lol*

Clue 210

At the back of the Lab, a window is broken. A few streaks of blood stain the shattered glass.

Clue 222. Red Filter letters: N O C G

The weather forecast for October 29th 2026 in Matinicus Isle, Maine. Heavy storms all day, ending in late evening or early the next morning.

Clue 155

Inside the Shipwreck, underneath a pile of driftwood, is a tunnel leading down into the earth.

Clue 239

Buried deep in a box of junk is a cassette labeled “Loveland Harbor Theme Song”. Whoever made it doesn’t play the guitar terribly, but they’re singing with such an embarrassingly fake southern accent that it’s certainly for the best you can’t recognize the voice.

Clue 306

Some metadata scraped from the Terrestrials forum. The newest account is Charizard_Kid_2012, created a few days after the announcement to build an island commune.

Clue 291

The wallet of Charizard_Kid_2012. It’s packed with credit cards, business cards for loan repayment agencies, and a platinum level loyalty card for a nearby Maine casino.

Clue 130

Two sets of fresh footprints heading from the Beach to the Lab. The footprints end in a well-trodden patch of dirt, where one of the sets of footprints leaves towards the back of the Lab and returns.

Clue 270

EvilGrungus’ Last Will and Testament

In the event of my death, I leave ownership of Loveland Harbor and governance of its inhabitants to my nearest living relative.

Signed July 27, 2026

Clue 252

EvilGrungus’ Last Will and Testament

In the event of my death, Loveland Harbor should be abandoned, or better yet, burned. This mission cannot continue without me to lead it.

Signed October 30, 2026

Clue 283

A gun once belonging to EvilGungus. A small revolver, unpolished but far from rusty. Several bullets are missing from the cylinder.

Clue 362

A bottle of “Pigeon Liquor” supposedly distilled from the excrement of birds indigenous to Matinicus Isle. The warning on the label prohibits consumption more than 24 hours after opening, as the brew ferments from an alcohol into a barbiturate. Biochemical research is underway on how this is possible, but in the meantime, the drink is not legal for sale.

Clue 354. Red filter Letters N C

In EvilGrungus’ bedroom within the Lab, is a CD player and old TV. On screen but currently paused, is a bootleg DVD of the Black Sight episode “Apocrypha”.

Clue 332

From Wikipedia:

“Apocrypha” is the sixth episode of American science fiction TV series “Black Sight” (2010-2011). In the episode, the Terrestrials discover an ancient Greek manuscript prophesying the end of the world in the year 1966, and travel to the island of Madagascar to seize a CIA surveillance tower and warn UFOs of the Earth’s destruction.

Clue 340

An old paperback book bearing the title “Witches of New England; or, An Exploration into the Legacy of 19th Century Occultism and the Authors Who Relied Upon Supernatural Aid to Write Their Books”

Clue 325, UV text “the author REALLY has a bone to pick with Ralph Waldo Emerson

A crumpled up note in EvilGrungus’ handwriting: “RodentGaming49 if you’re reading this I’m still at the Pond doing my meditations. I felt a psychic premonition that today’s trance would last several hours, so go on and have breakfast without me, I’ll eat later.”

Clue 319

The rocky shores and turbulent waters surrounding Loveland Harbor make swimming around the circumference of the island incredibly dangerous, unless one is a very strong swimmer.

Clue 402. Red filter letters, O I T

This storage locker in the Lab has a padlock on it.

Clue 599

In the woods, a bit east of the Pond, is a small hole in the earth. It's too narrow to fit through, but shining a light in reveals a large cave a dozen or so feet down. You can't see how far it extends, but there are some pieces of rotting lumber and the dull reflection of metal visible on the cave floor.

Clue 377

The unofficial Black Sight forum contains the following subpages: Rewatch Discussions, Theory-Crafting, Cosplays, Cast Interviews, etc. Despite the small user base (mainly those currently at Loveland Harbor), each thread has hundreds of comments, with some of the earliest discussions still receiving new replies.

Clue 370

A photograph from a cheap instant camera, taken the first day on the island. All 11 members (including the then-alive EvilGrungus) are in a line, smiling at the camera.

Clue 390. UV "cobra_operative stands a bit distant from the others in the picture"

A brochure from the Matinicus Isle Historical Society:

"... visit Greenway Island, where renowned author Ralph Waldo Emerson lived for two weeks before relocating back to Massachusetts. Little is known about why he found the island unsuitable, but the museum collects…."

Clue 389

The Shipwreck

Although moldy and crawling with Bark Crab Spiders, this authentic shipwreck is remarkably well-preserved. Probably a merchant ship, it brought some of the first inhabitants to Loveland Harbor when it crashed long ago.

Clue 010

The Village

While mostly collapsed, these stone cottages built by previous inhabitants of Loveland Harbor can be turned back into shelter, and a few have been. Ages ago, the former settlers tried cultivating tomatoes and various herbs, and they're still growing in sporadic patches here.

Clue 441

The Lab

The forest is thickest around the Lab, the most permanent structure on the island. It's made of sheet metal and drywall, but by some miracle of teamwork, already has electricity and plumbing.

Clue 415

The Pond

There's a freshwater pond in the center of the island, surrounded by enormous trees. Picturesque scenery and an abundance of Lake Trout make this a popular spot for your group to relax.

Clue 062

The Beach

The living space of most of the Terrestrials forum. Tents and shabby huts are set up on the gravely shore. The main attractions consist of the firepit and bar, which is running dangerously low on alcohol.

Clue 437. Red Filter Letters C

The Lighthouse

Once painted but now bare stone, the Lighthouse was built by survivors of the Shipwreck to prevent further accidents. The shore around the Lighthouse is filled with large jagged rocks, providing ample hiding spots.

Clue 423

From the Knox County newspaper, September 1981.

"Counted among the stranger goings-on is the purchase of a little island by the eccentric [EvilGungus' Grand-Aunt]. Twice abandoned and now twice renamed (first "Grenouille" then "Greenway"), this office is accepting wagers as to whether the run of bad luck will continue for "Loveland Harbor".

Clue 059

"… Addendum 1.2, All members relinquish individual claims to material possessions, up to and including life itself, insofar as it is required in the pursuit of this peace."

Clue 076

From the personal journal of EvilGrungus,

"I don't think I will be as mournful as I currently am when all is said and done. I am asking a great deal of sacrifice from my Terrestrials, but they were well informed of what hardships we might face. I can't be blamed if they didn't take the risks seriously."

Clue 024

Half-buried in gravel by the Lighthouse is the splintered remnants of a chair, now missing two legs. It was smashed in an argument between EvilGrungus and _pyramidAura444.

Clue 475

A photo of RodentGaming49 and Peptomancer at a small sci-fi convention run by b0mb_thr3at, taken around a year before EvilGrungus entered the friend group.

Clue 047

In the Village is a backpack once belonging to EvilGrungus. It contains a book on Hermetic Alchemy, a faded map of Loveland Harbor, a UCLA coffee thermos, and a perforated jar containing a (still-living) Leopard Slug.

Clue 039. Red Filter Letters: Z O B

In a hastily-constructed cabin at the Beach is an open coffee pot filled with dead flies and insects.

Clue 845. Red Filter letters Z O B

EvilGrungus: hey this is a weird favor to ask but could you like, keep an eye on someone for me?
cobra_operative: oh we doing spy shit now? hell yeah
EvilGrungus: no no nothing that crazy, I'm just being paranoid again. I only ask bc youve known them longer than i have actually and. idk. just let me know if you see sentiments of vengeance(?) brewing cobra_operative: lmao the Property Owner to "foiling coup attempts" pipeline is real. i'm on it boss.

Clue 876

From the diary of MarkWahlbergOfficial:

"First day on the island, I'm pretty excited, all things considered! Lot of familiar faces, and most of them I actually like. No clue who the weirdo in the sweater is though, I asked around and no one seems to know."

Clue 822

From the top of the lighthouse, you can see that a Marigold patch has grown in a peculiar pattern.

Clue 811

The sigil on the reverse of this clue is a near-match for the sigil on the back of the lab. The intent was that there's a teleportation circle thing, but the symbology language wasn't developed enough for that to read well. Alas.

This small, straw doll has it's head missing. In the bushes nearby, a fox can be seen chewing on something.

Clue 837

A weathered plaque on the Lighthouse is hardly legible:
"...constructed in 181.... themselves survivors of a shipwreck... initial population quickly dwindled... clinically insane, with amuz ted ceycoed wmb "

Clue 666 [in code, code 181, "delusions of monsters"]

Theres some extra UV markings on this one saying the Deliverance is the shipwreck on the island

A non-exhaustive index of notable vessels either missing or destroyed, courtesy of the Matinicus Isle Historical Society.

- (1692) St. Godric, Cpt. Walker
- (1733) The Flying Sturgeon, Cpt. White
-(1753) John Adams, Cpt. Lance
- (1758) SS Manchester, Cpt. Jackson
- (1818) The Deliverance, Cpt. Roland
- (1900) Clemency, Cpt. Baker

Clue 386

A stone grave marker found half-swallowed by time; “Here lies the esteemed Captain Roland. Good riddance!”

Clue 927

A snippet from the Knox County newspaper details the findings of an ecological survey in the area. Apparently, the pH balance of rainwater is severely off, and it is advised to minimize contact, especially drinking, of rain in the region.

Clue 894

A puddle of rainwater from last night’s storm. It’s clear and clean; scooping up a handful, you wouldn’t even know it was from the ground.

Clue 881. Red filter letter O

An open gas can is floating in the Pond. There don’t appear to be any discolorations on the pond’s surface from any gas spilling out.

Clue 911. Red filter letters O E

The minutes from a meeting of the Terrestrial council, lead by b0mb_thr3at. The main item on the agenda was how to secure funding to continue weekly Hoagie Night.

Clue 906

Many of the young trees on the island are a vibrant green, despite the late fall weather. When chopped down, the usual rings of the trunk form an odd pattern.

Clue 715

A note written by EvilGrungus

"TO-DO: buy a new lock for the storage locker, since 36754332 'accidently' smashed the old one……."

Clue 535

Somebody spray-painted the back wall of the Lab.

Clue 620

While cross-referencing alibis, you notice a few strange things:

- Plunger9999 can't be accounted for between 4pm and 7pm
- b0mb_thr3at was the last person to (admit to) see EvilGrungus alive
- no one SAW _pyramidAura444 between 2pm and 8pm

Clue 617

Professor [name scribbled out], Your proposal to study the ecology of Loveland Harbor has been accepted, and if the claims made therein are further verified, motions can be made to protect the island from human interference and preserve it for further research.

Octavian Bloch, Director of the College of Earth, Life, and Health Sciences, University of Maine.

Clue 508

On Top of the Shipwreck, there is a rusted knife embedded in the splintered mast.

Clue 602

On the Back of the shipwreck, barnacles have grown in a spiralling pattern.

Clue 593

A set of footprints leaving the Village. The prints have a hexagonal pattern.

Clue 606

EvilGrungus died while in the midst of building a tile mosaic inside a Village building.

Clue 574

In the television show “Black Sight”, the U.S. government uses the following icon to denote “Ordresh-Type Entities”; destructive creatures with a mythological precedent.

Clue 581

In the Shipwreck is a rifle that looks to be from the American Civil War. It’s a modern prop, not an antique; although it doesn’t fire, the bayonet is quite real.

Clue 562

On this island plants, animals, even the clouds overhead all bear traces of the same symbolic pattern. A spilled cup of water will form into an apparent sigil; drawing a similar sigil in the dirt may cause a trickle of rain to fall from the sky.

Clue 550

An announcement on the main webpage of the Terrestrials forum:

"Unofficial 'The Making of Black Sight' documentary crowdfunder is still open and taking late pledges! We apologize to our early backers for the delay but promise the wait will be worth it!"

Clue 517

A tiny black vial, half full.

Clue 525

You see b0mb_thr3at kneeling over the corpse of EvilGrungus, injecting some kind of syringe.

Clue 503

You see b0mb_thr3at kneeling over the corpse of EvilGrungus, injecting some kind of syringe.

Clue 545

You see b0mb_thr3at kneeling over the corpse of EvilGrungus, injecting some kind of syringe.

Clue 641

A series of photographs, spanning two weeks. RodentGaming49 is seen by their hut in the Village with someone in a baseball hat carrying a duffel bag. Details are fuzzy, but you can say with absolute certainty that this stranger is someone you've never seen before.

Clue 532

A cell phone video, to be uploaded online the next time someone's phone can get service. It shows a small campfire that 36764332 masterfully extinguishes by vomiting on.

Clue 701

A charcoal sketch of the island drawn by 36754332. Looming in the clouds is an enormous pair of dilated, inhuman eyes. Hundreds of tadpoles are depicted in the water, all swimming to shore.

Clue 727

An internal memo from the Matinicus Isle Historical Society. EvilGrungus has scribbled a note on it in red pen,

"Incredibly useful info, but how come we have these? There's security labels on this document and I don't want us to face a lawsuit or anything."

Clue 732

From the Knox County Newspaper, July 24th 2026.

"... allegations made at the Matinicus Isle Historical Society of an employee stealing cash and sensitive documents. A suspect has not been named, but rumor has it the items were smuggled out of the building in a fake leg, which shouldn't make the culprit hard to find..."

Clue 723

A detailed (if hastily scrawled) analysis of acoustics, trigonometry, and geography come to a startling conclusion. There is no way the gunshots heard originated from anywhere other than the Pond. Because of the distance to the Village and severity of the wound, it can be safely determined that EvilGrungus was not killed by a bullet.

Clue 679

Rummaging through RodentGaming49's private possessions, you find a contract from Netflix to produce a documentary.

Clue 741

The woods near the Lighthouse have a few tarps covering bundles of firewood. One of them however, conceals a radio station with a computer terminal. Cables exit the device and run in all directions.

Clue 116

This online quiz determines what video game represents your personality. A few members of the Terrestrials forum have taken it, here are their results.
36754332 - Grand Theft Auto V
MarkWahlbergOfficial - Phoenix Wright: Ace Attorney
RodentGaming49 - Five Nights At Freddy's
Charizard_Kid_2012 - Digimon

Clue 105

A bundle of aquatic gear, including flippers, scuba tanks and snorkels. These could transform nearly anyone into a very strong swimmer.

Clue 092

There is a listening device concealed in the bushes near the Lighthouse. Whoever planted it must be nearby, as you can hear someone running away very fast as you pick up the microphone.

Clue 760

There is a listening device concealed in the reeds near the Pond. It doesn't seem operational, though, as it's covered in a bubbling, hissing ooze.

Clue 779

There is a listening device concealed in the thatched roofing of one of the Village's buildings. A piece of tape on the device has "MICROPHONE #4" written on it in terrible handwriting.

Clue 782

Footage from a hidden camera. Plunger9999 is in the Village with b0mb_thr3at; the former says,

"I'm sick of us all being treated like children! I knows there's shit going on behind the scenes we don't know about and it's starting to scare me."

Clue 999

Footage from a hidden camera. EvilGrungus is hunched over a desk, scribbling out maps and plans for the island's future. Charizard_Kid_2012 and RodentGaming49 make frequent visits; bantering, collaborating and solving problems.

Clue 753

An unfinished manuscript EvilGrungus was writing, titled "Absence of Shadow". Haphazard notes proclaiming to be a "new philosophy", the most recent entry was the morning of October 30th, but you can't make heads or tails of what it's saying.

Clue 998

From Wikipedia:
"Maine Man" is the third episode of American science fiction TV series "Black Sight" (2010-2011). The episode focuses on the creation of the Spear of Saint Croix, an Ordresh-Type Entity powered by blood sacrifice. The script for the episode is based on a pseudepigraphal confession from Pierre Dugua claiming to have slaughtered his crew by harpoon in a fit of madness.

Clue 851

A page from the journal of Jeremiah Hazletop:
" I suppose I've 'Delivered' our captain to her resting place now, the second burial of the morning. If only I could cast the cursed thing into the sea! Alas, I know whatever malign powers guide us would only bring it to shore again. A pit all the way to Hell wouldn't be deep enough, for I fear what I plant today may take root and sprout in the future."

Clue 088

A photograph of poor or hasty quality, taken in someone's house (not on Loveland Harbor). Clearly in frame is a marriage certificate bearing _pyramidAura444's real name, dated June 27th, 2009.

Clue 862

A workbench in the Lab still has EvilGrungus' half-eaten breakfast, an artisanal grain bowl with organic blueberry compote.

Clue 972

By the Pond are enormous tracks, they appear as if something is being dragged into (or out of?) the water.

Clue 987

The corpse of everythingisfine. It appears they were mauled by a wild animal. Rest in peace.

Clue 956

In the Village, there's a massive pit covered by sticks and grass, nearly four feet deep. At the bottom there's a shovel and a pile of rags that look at least a century old. If you put the concealment back over the pit, this would make a great hiding spot.

Clue 969

A cabinet containing EvilGrungus' medications. Handwritten notes on the bottles outline the daily regiment, and you can see a range of drugs, from antibiotics and over-the-counter cold meds, to xanax and adderall.

Clue 941. Red filter letters R A L

An expensive-looking compound bow and quiver belonging to everythingisfine. For every Eastern Cottontail rabbit that's been hunted, perhaps a half-dozen arrows are missing.

Clue 938

A page from the journal of Jeremiah Hazletop

"Our craft has departed from yet another peculiar American settlement. Romantics, Trancendentalists, Naturalists, something of that sort. In their disdain for mechanized society they've been struck with the belief that a communal, unifying belief can harness Neptunian forces . Much too intellectual for my tastes, and glad to be away as I was struck with the sensation they had meant us harm."

Clue 548

A blood sample from EvilGrungus' body.

Clue 586. Red Filter Letters O G

In the basement of the Lighthouse, there's a secluded cubby, an empty closet with stone walls and stone floor.

A loose stone reveals a compartment containing a pack of cigarettes, a list of dates and times, and a vial of foul-smelling black liquid.

Clue 007

There's a teddy bear in the juniper bushes at the Beach. It's ragged and falling apart; likely from both exposure to the elements and heavy use.

Hidden inside the stuffing are a collection of credit cards under a variety of names.

Clue 500

Sitting on a tree stump in the Village gives you a nice view of the ocean; black waves and cold winds don't make for much of a scenic picture this time of night.

On rock, the piece of report that is above the waves is protected against the storm.

Clue 800. Red filter letters G I O T

The corpse of the strangest bear you've ever seen, if that's what it even is. Its ten feet in size, instead of hair there's slimy and bumpy skin, and the limbs end in seven-pronged webbed appendages. To kill this thing must've taken a legendary act of heroism.

Two bullet wounds are in its stomach, almost totally healed

Clue 153. Update to something with 00, oops.

Rumor has it that before Loveland Harbor was officially settled, the land was used as an exchange point for French smugglers bringing contraband across the Atlantic. Records of these illicit deals might have once been carved on trees, but it's since weathered away.
